

CORRIGENDUM

“Ecological Land Classification and Mapping of Yazili Canyon Nature Park in the Mediterranean Region, Turkey”

(doi:10.3846/16486897.2011.638214)

Kursad Ozkan and Ahmet Mert, authors of article Ecological Land Classification and Mapping of Yazili Canyon Nature Park in the Mediterranean Region, Turkey, published in 19.4 (December 2011), would like to make the following correction in the third paragraph of Introduction on page 296.

“The Yazili Canyon Nature park is one of the areas traversed by the legendary Royal Road of antiquity. This ancient Roman road where chariots once rushed along was used by the local villagers until a hundred years ago (Clow, Richardson 2005). St. Paul Trail passes from the Yazili Canyon as well. Besides, there are various inscriptions on the rocky faces of the Canyon (Demirpolat 2004). That is another reason, the park is important from the historical point of view.”